AXENTA Group acquires HK Präzisionsteile GmbH

Frankfurt am Main, July 2026. AXENTA Group (“AXENTA” - previously Herbrig Group), a portfolio company of Borromin Capital Fund V, has acquired HK Präzisionsteile GmbH together with its subsidiary HKP Polska sp. z o.o. (together, “HKP”), a manufacturer of precision turned and CNC-milled parts. The terms and conditions of the transaction have not been disclosed. AXENTA was acquired by Borromin Capital Fund V in November 2025 with the objective of driving both organic growth and expansion through targeted add-on acquisitions.

Marco Bernecker, Managing Partner of Borromin: “The acquisition of HKP marks an important step in the strategic development of AXENTA. By expanding its capabilities, technological depth and gaining access to additional industries through HKP, the Group is further strengthening its position as an integrated platform in precision engineering, well positioned to capture attractive growth opportunities in a highly fragmented market environment.”

Marc Schilling, Partner of Borromin: “This add-on acquisition marks the first step in a dedicated buy-and-build strategy to establish a leading group for precision metal turned parts for very small and highly complex geometries.”

Christoph Herbrig, CEO of AXENTA: “With Jakub Kleinschmidt, AXENTA gains another experienced manager. After many years of successful cooperation, I am particularly pleased to integrate HKP into the machining division to offer our customers a wide range of precision manufacturing and services from a single source.”

HKP

HKP was founded in 2019 and specializes in manufacturing highly complex metal parts with a diameter from 32mm to 400mm. In addition, HKP has own assembly capacities in its Polish subsidiary, allowing the company to also offer fully assembled ready-to-install units. The company serves its customers with strong in-house capabilities along the entire value chain, from initial concept development to final production and delivery.

AXENTA

Following the acquisition of HKP and the addition of HERBIG & Co. GmbH in November 2025, AXENTA has significantly strengthened its market position as a leading provider of precision machining services. Building on a long-standing heritage dating back to 1956, the AXENTA Group now offers an expanded portfolio of high-precision turned parts featuring complex geometries and diameters ranging from 0.5 mm to 400 mm. With three state-of-the-art production sites in Germany, the Group serves international customers across key technology-driven markets, setting new standards in quality, reliability, and precision.
